ALL AMERICAN CORPORATION 10TH ANNIVERSARY MARKED BY SERVICE EXCELLENCE AWARD

Named "Agent of the Year" by the American Moving and Storage Association

RALEIGH, N.C. – All American Corporation, a Raleigh-based provider of commercial and residential relocation services in North Carolina, has been awarded the inaugural "Moving and Storage Agent of the Year Service Excellence Award" by the American Moving and Storage Association (AMSA).

"The dedication of our employees has been essential to the company's sustained growth," said Brett Plummer, co-owner and CEO of All American Corporation. "This award recognizes the 'Whatever It Takes' attitude to exceed our customers' expectations that every person at All American lives out."

The award came as All American Corporation celebrated its 10th anniversary. The company has enjoyed sustained growth over this period in part due to North Carolina being one of the 10 most active states for relocating the nearly 40 million Americans who changed residences, according to a 2005 Bureau of the Census annual report.

All American Corporation has a long history of winning awards including: the 2006 and 2007 Mayflower Transit Customer Choice Award and IMPACT Claims Prevention Award, and the 2006 Mayflower Transit President's Quality Award. In addition, co-owner and CFO John Potts was named the 2001 Mover of the Year by the North Carolina Mover's Association.

Judging was based on customer service assessments, industry recognition, leadership, innovation, as well as community involvement.
